

The Effect of ShotSpotter Technology on Police Response Times

Michael Topper and Toshio Ferrazares*

Last Updated: 2023-06-16

JEL Codes:

*Department of Economics, University of California Santa Barbara, 2017 North Hall, Santa Barbara, CA (michaeltopper@ucsb.edu).

1 References

2 Figures

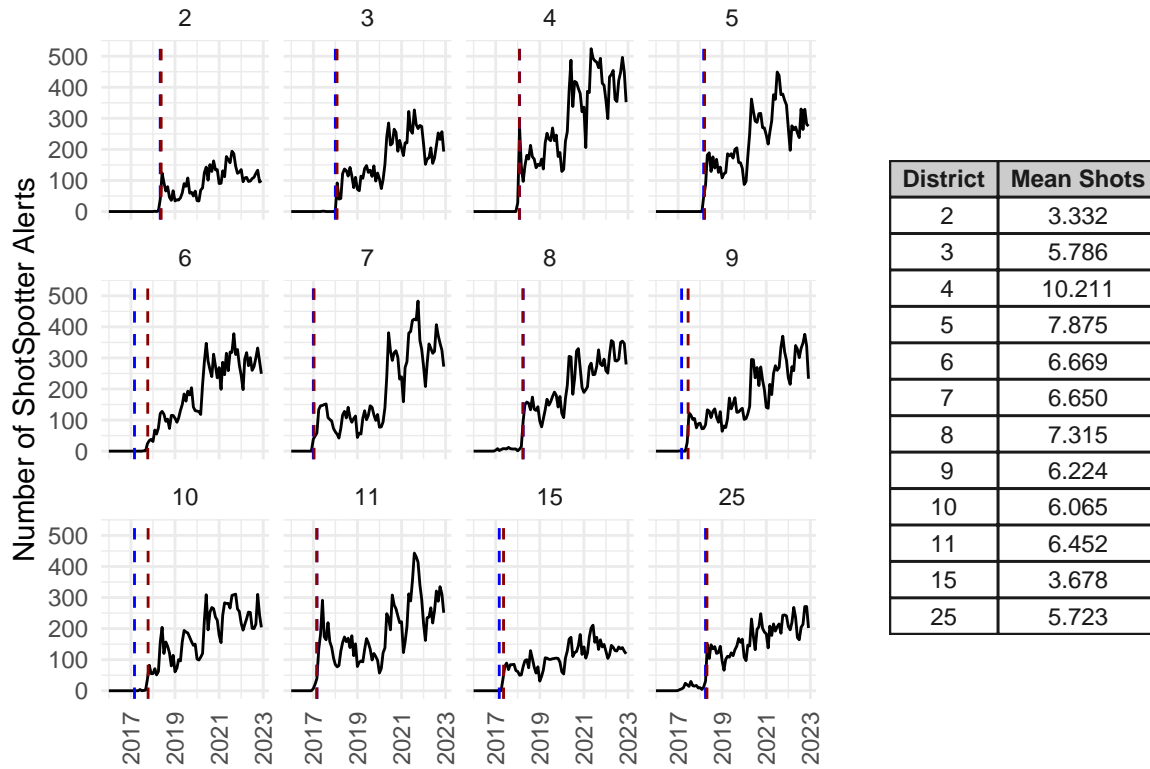

Figure 1: Locations of the Universities Included in the Sample

Note: There are a total of 37 universities in the sample, five of which are private universities. Data on both geographic location and private/public entity are obtained from the Integrated Postsecondary Education Data System (IPEDS).

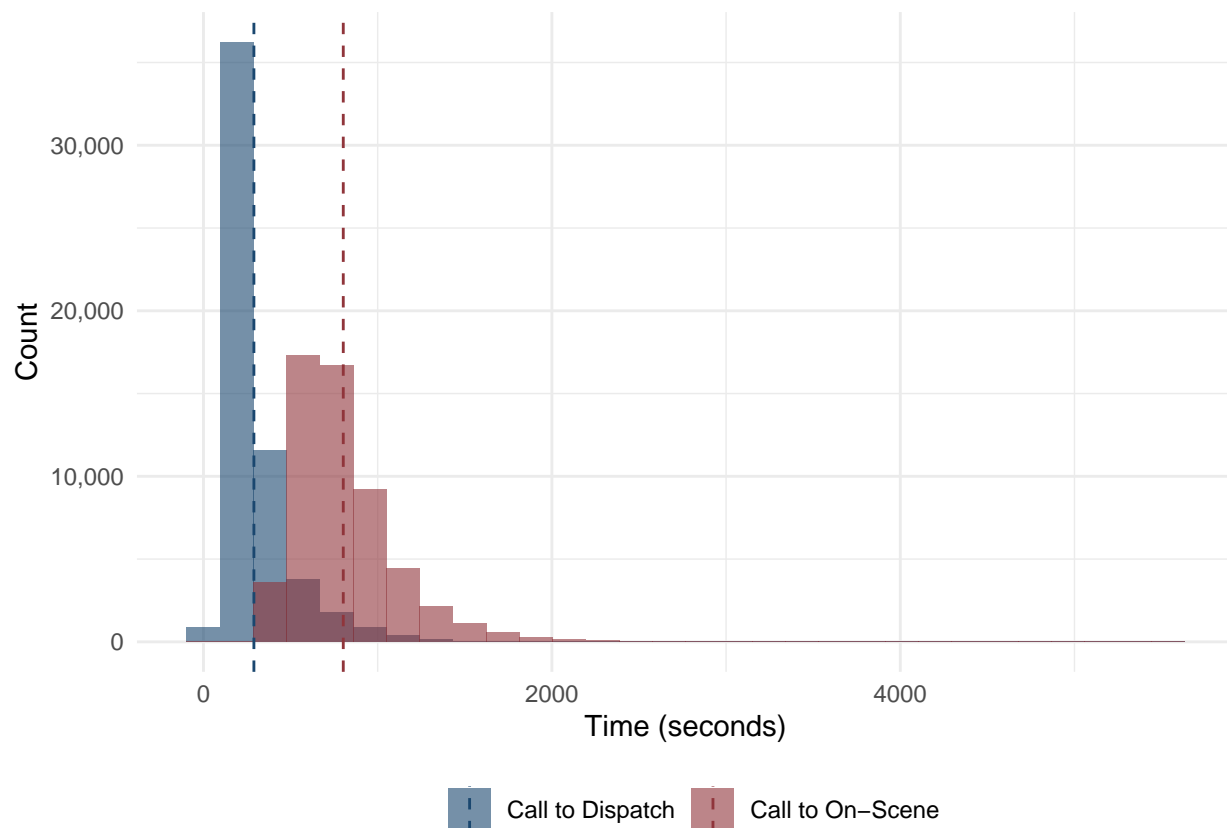

Figure 2: Locations of the Universities Included in the Sample

Note: There are a total of 37 universities in the sample, five of which are private universities. Data on both geographic location and private/public entity are obtained from the Integrated Postsecondary Education Data System (IPEDS).

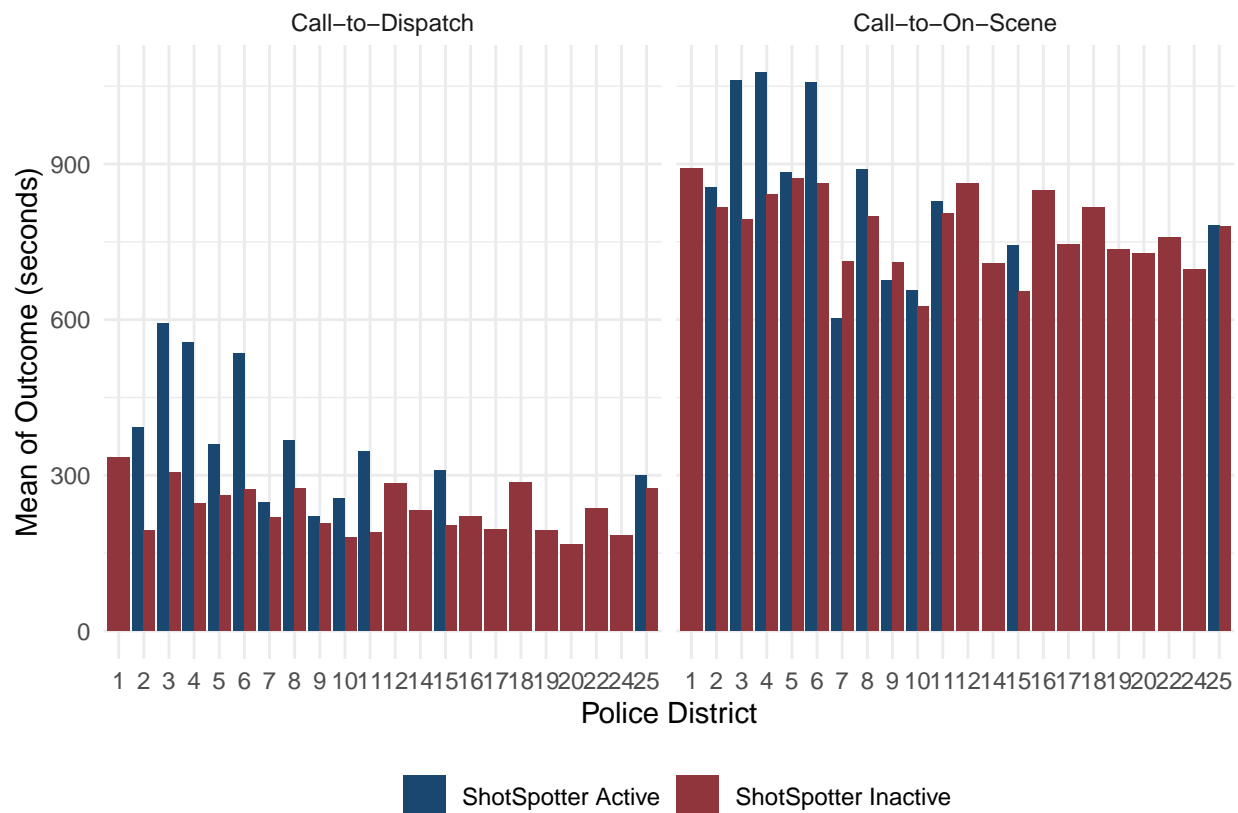

Figure 3: Locations of the Universities Included in the Sample
Note: There are a total of 37 universities in the sample, five of which are private universities. Data on both geographic location and private/public entity are obtained from the Integrated Postsecondary Education Data System (IPEDS).

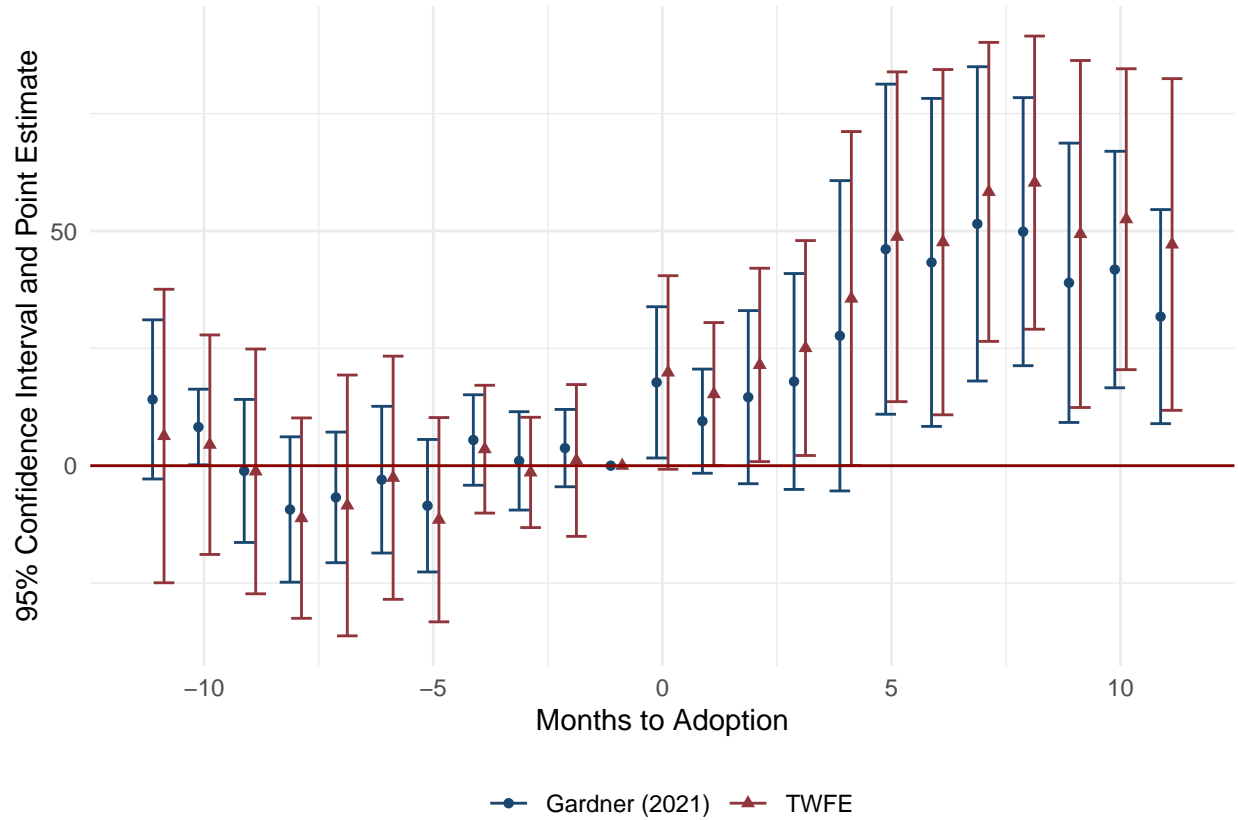

Figure 4: Locations of the Universities Included in the Sample

Note: There are a total of 37 universities in the sample, five of which are private universities. Data on both geographic location and private/public entity are obtained from the Integrated Postsecondary Education Data System (IPEDS).

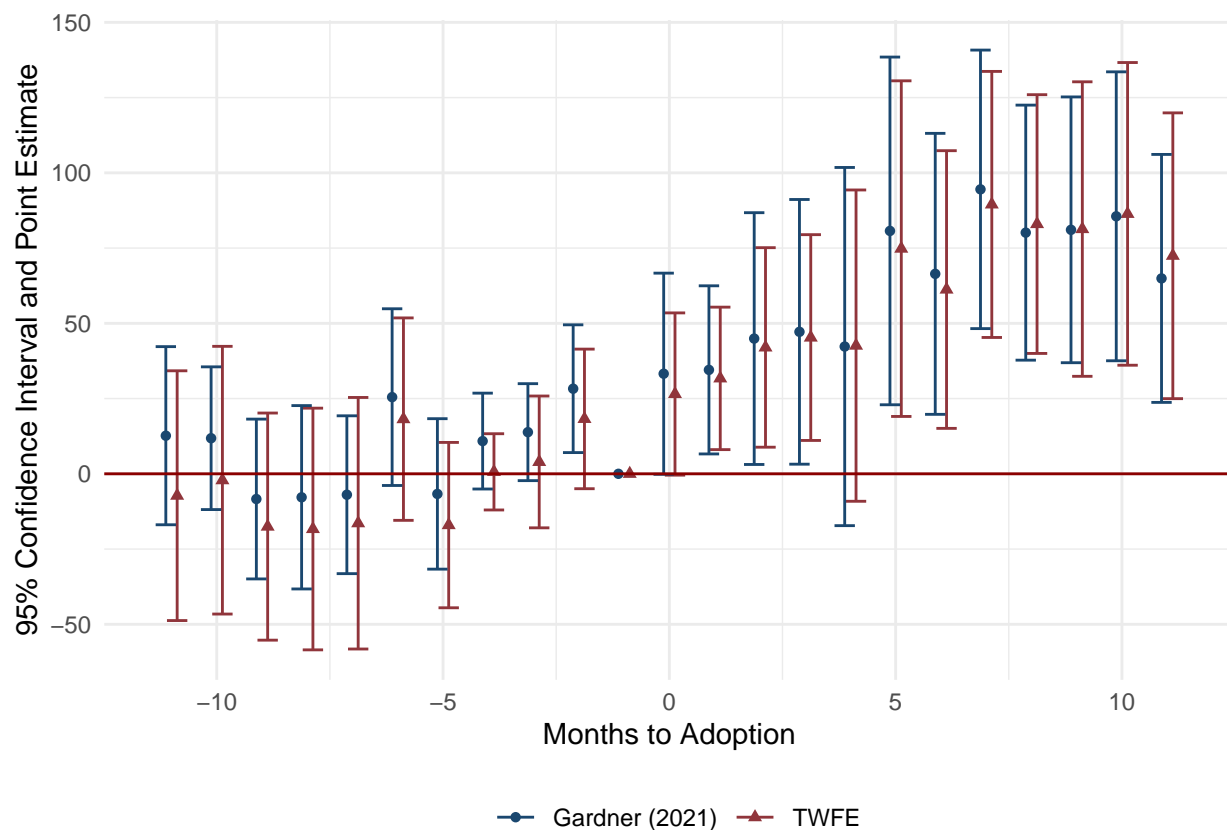

Figure 5: Locations of the Universities Included in the Sample

Note: There are a total of 37 universities in the sample, five of which are private universities. Data on both geographic location and private/public entity are obtained from the Integrated Postsecondary Education Data System (IPEDS).

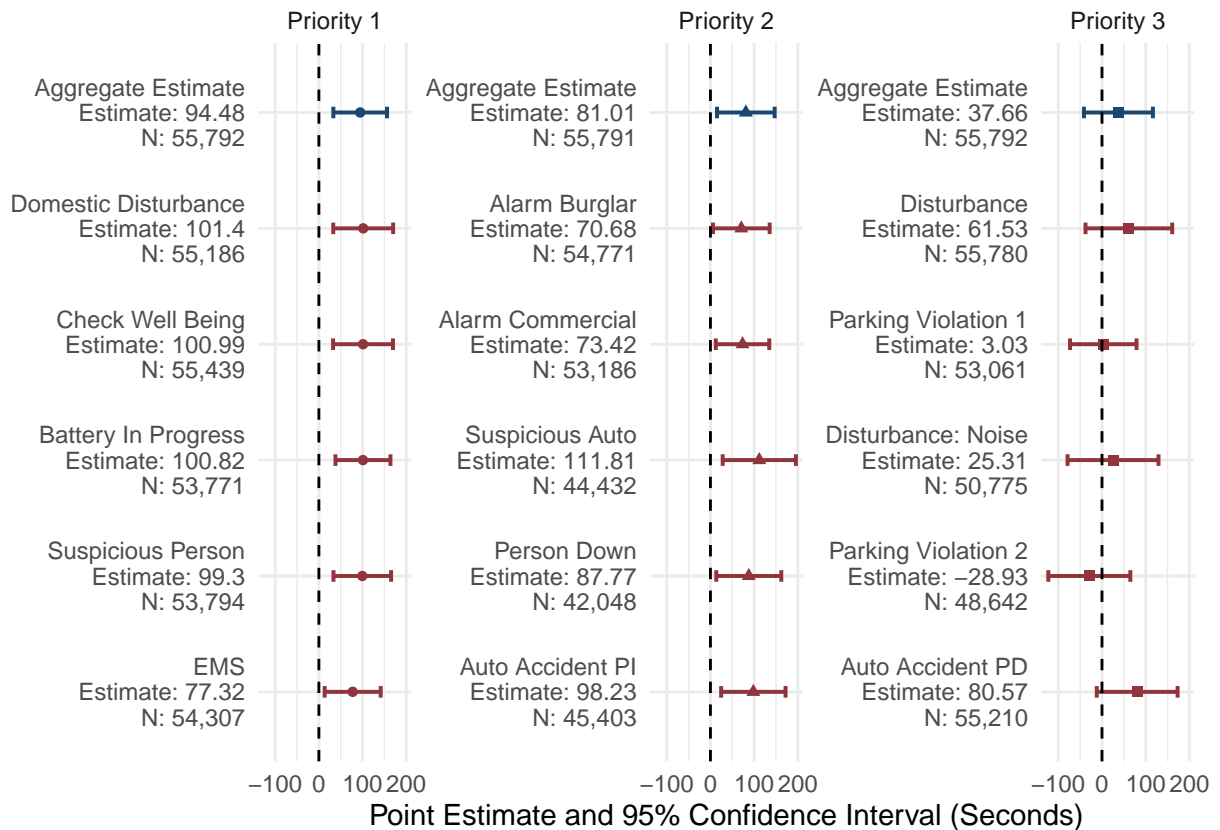

Figure 6: Locations of the Universities Included in the Sample

Note: There are a total of 37 universities in the sample, five of which are private universities. Data on both geographic location and private/public entity are obtained from the Integrated Postsecondary Education Data System (IPEDS).

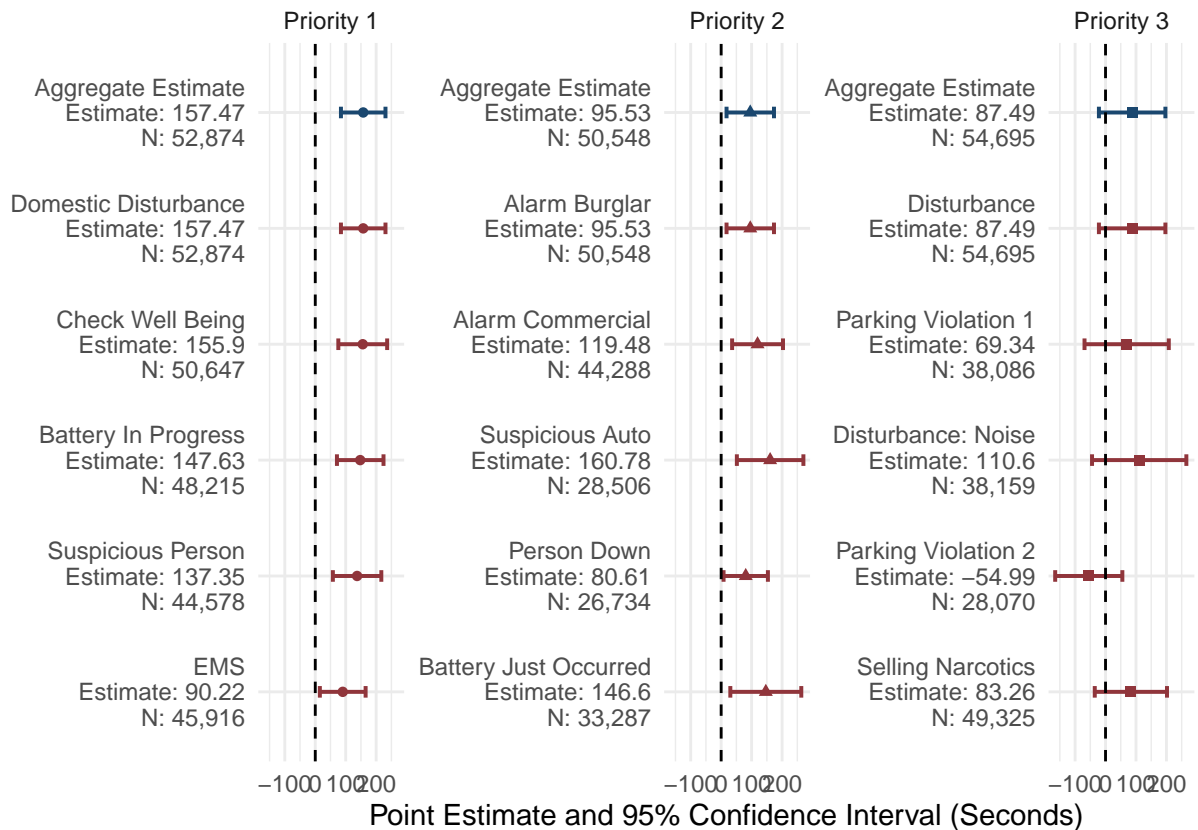

Figure 7: Locations of the Universities Included in the Sample
Note: There are a total of 37 universities in the sample, five of which are private universities. Data on both geographic location and private/public entity are obtained from the Integrated Postsecondary Education Data System (IPEDS).